PUYALLUP, WA (July 23, 2018) – SEFNCO Communications Inc, a leading wireline / fiber deployment construction contractor with operations in several western states, announced today its plans to relocate its corporate headquarters in Puyallup to new larger space at The Benaroya Company’s South Hill Business + Technology Center. The expansion is necessitated by SEFNCO’s significant business growth in the region.

SEFNCO will occupy 15,810 square feet in the LEED Silver Certified West Office Building. The new modern, highly efficient space has been designed to mirror SEFNCO’s distinctive culture and brand and will be home to more than 90 SEFNCO employees.

“We are excited to be able to maintain our corporate office in Puyallup with the relocation to the South Hill Business + Technology Center, a move made with the intent to support our current needs and anticipated long-term growth,” said Seth Sherwood, President of SEFNCO Communications.

Conveniently located with easy access to Seattle, Tacoma, Bellevue and Sea-Tac International Airport, South Hill Business + Technology Center provides state-of-the-art Class A facilities and infrastructure for both business and technology users. The 86-acre park-like campus delivers a high quality of life for employees with plentiful free parking, abundant neighborhood retail and recreation amenities, robust infrastructure and ample room for growth and expansion.

"We are thrilled by SEFNCO's decision to locate and grow their business at our South Hill Business + Technology Center," said Larry Benaroya. "SEFNCO is a great fit and we look forward to welcoming them later this summer."

SEFNCO Communications was represented by Matthew Hagen of Kidder Mathews, Andrea Peterson and John Bauder of CBRE represented The Benaroya Company.
